HEAD OF THE LIFTLINE

by Pam Holder

By the time you read this, the first SCSC ski trip will be over. Apparently all of the snow dancing at the last Executive Committee Meeting (we have to do something to keep the Board Members entertained) helped in getting the snow gods to dust the mountains with snow just in the nick of time.

And speaking of Nick, it's that time again to start leaving out the cookies and milk. A merry group of SCSCers was seen strolling the Strand in Galveston for the Dickens celebration. If you haven't yet had a chance to join SCSCers in this annual tradition of party, party, party - take heart. The biggest SCSC party of the year is about to take place on December 16th. Come to the General Meeting at The Grand on the 12th and sign up for the Christmas party. If you can't make the meeting, call Linda Licarione at 468-2816 or Vicki Faulkner at 863-0470 to make a reservation. They will tell you where to send your money. This will be a great party, so come out and join in the holiday spirit.

But even in the lighthearted spirit of the times, your officers have been hard at work "keeping the home fires burning". The business of SCSC marches on. Ginger Howard, our Club Secretary, has been hard at work putting the new Directory together with the help of Bill Vasen, VP Membership. If you don't have your copy yet, not to worry. I've been assured "It's in the mail."

Board member Jerry Montgomery is chairing this year's Nominating Committee for next year's officers. If you are interested in being an officer, call Jerry at 437-5467. The qualifications for the various positions are listed in Article 4.0 of the Bylaws in your Directory. Every year we remind you that SCSC is a volunteer organization and for the club to endure we need "new blood". The road to being an officer starts with volunteering to run activities and trips. The more you volunteer and participate in this organization, the more you will get out of it. And speaking from experience, that's the truth.

CONTEST TIME!

Beginning with the July issue of the Sitzmarke, we started running a 6-month contest to encourage attentive reading of our publication.

Each month we have printed a brief characterization of a unique skier-type somewhere within the pages of articles and ads. This month is our final characterization. If you can find the corresponding picture elsewhere in this issue that would fit in the box below, clip this picture and paste or tape it in place, along with the previous five. Mail your filled boxes to the Sitzmarke Editor, 11002 Hammerly, No. 194, Houston, Texas 77043. Prizes will be awarded to the three top finishers. In the event of a tie, a drawing will be conducted from all the correctly completed forms.

TEXAS RENAISSANCE FESTIVAL

by Anita Yeomans

Bill Cochran, Anita Yeomans, Diane Yarberry and Jan Eifert.

On the twenty-second day of October in the year of nineteen hundred and eighty-eight, thirty noble SCSC lords and ladies ventured to the magical kingdom of the Fourteenth Annual Texas Renaissance Festival.

As the merry group departed, they were skeptical as to whether their hired "chariot" would deliver them to the desired destination. Rose, the bus driver, was unable to turn the bus around as they left Windsor Plaza, and was unable to locate the Circle K one block away. Furthermore, Manuel Valle informed Rose that he knew a more efficient way to Plantersville than the route that was planned. Indeed, it was discovered that Manuel does not have a keen sense of direction!

Jerry Pyle was quite hospitable, as he served breakfast even though there were no screwdrivers available. What a sport!

The group was greeted by the Beefeaters at the gate. Many of the participants were entertained by the chariot rides, sword swallowing, mud throwing, fencing, belly dancing, and a variety of other games. For some, the best part of the trip was watching mighty Tom Okamoto swing the sledge hammer at the Power Tower. Jerry Crumpton enjoyed the land of gypsies, where there were no morals....he even gave an impromptu performance dancing with a seductive gypsy.

Carol Tapal and Sylvia Peters were seen searching for Tarzan while riding an elephant. Jerry Rotenberg and Anita Yeomans tugged at the Ogre, who was so delighted he "green slimed" them with pickle juice. Irene Whitt had to run to avoid the Ogre's big foot.

Bill Cochran and Diane Yarberry were so enticed by the mud wrestling contest they were even tempted to do some muddy kissing. Ron and Stephanie Sykra enjoyed eating turkey legs and trying to find the rest of the group.

For others, the day was

A man named Michael delivered the most wonderful 15-minute massage for 10 pounds to Barb Niland; she said it was "the best she ever had". Gloria Fendrick had her fortune told by a tarot card reader and was informed that she would meet a handsome stranger on November 12 in Laredo. (Did she get there?...)

Mindy and John Rowland were not seen anywhere; rumor had it they took private belly dancing lessons. All Doug Langley wanted to do was grab for the belly dancer's G-string, but Penny Chancey insisted that he accompany her shopping.

All in all, everyone had a good time. The group made sure Manuel Valle did not assist Rose with directions on the return trip, for they were afraid that the bus could still be driving around Texas!

There were many apparitions at the Morgans' Castle the eve of October 29th, many of whom danced around the cauldron till dawn (5:00 A.M.). All feasted on fowl, witches brew (soup) and guzzled hops and wine. Many paid homage to the great witches in the sky by dancing and singing around the bonfire and making burnt offerings (marshmallows). All the costumes were outstanding and everyone deserved a prize for their imagination and creativity. The official prize winners were: Best Couple - Walter and Edna Nurd (Michael Moldofsky and Gene Michaels); Best Male - Dracula (Bob Fried), and Best Female - The Elviras (Dona Repka and Glynnda Addicks). The surprise is that the last prize has not been awarded. Everyone is eligible! Just match the names to the costumes (use the pictures to help) and send your answers to: Kathy Morgan, 1811 Stoney Brook #106, Houston, TX 77063. The first member with the right answers wins the final prize.

SKI PATROL

Name: BILL KIRK

When did you go on first ski trip? 1976.

Where was it to? Riodosa, New Mexico
...by BUS!

Have you ever skied before? yes.

What did you expect to happen? All those women!

What did happen? Met a few, but had more fun with people on the trip.

What surprised you the most? The ski lift. It was a Poma lift and I couldn't get a hold of it and kept falling.

What was your most unforgettable experience on any SCSC trip? When we had to do two passes over the Aspen airfield (different trip) because there was too much snow there to land.

NEWS FROM THE SKI DESK

by Gloria Rooney

LIFT TICKETS -- STILL A VALUE?

So, you've picked your resort destinations, patronized the local ski sales and maybe even begun your pre-season exercise program. The next step is to attend your Trip's Pre-Trip Party. It is at this event that one invariably hears moans and groans concerning the price of lift tickets! Even though SCSC trip leaders and officers and the TSC representatives have been able to secure sizable group discounts, there is the age-old question regarding the price of the lift ticket. Prices have risen steadily over the last several years; are we getting more or just paying more?

"Sticker Shock" is very much in the news when it comes to lift tickets. The local and National press publish the posted daily lift ticket prices, which for most Colorado ski resorts, exceed the $30.00 mark. Although it is these rates that are published, very few people actually pay the undiscounted rate. For a comparison of the published rate vs. our SCSC discounted rates, here are some examples:

DAILY ADULT LIFT TICKET PRICES 88-89

Resort	Published Price	SCSC Price	Discount %
Keystone	$26	$17	35
Steamboat	32	19	41
Vail	35	23	34
Telluride	32	19	41
Taos	29	26	10
Breckenridge	31	21	32
Winter Park	28	21	33

So even if you are on only one SCSC trip, you've already saved more than our annual SCSC dues through lift ticket discounts!

There's no question that the price of lift tickets has risen over the last few years. Most of us can remember when the daily price was in the mid-teens and I bet that we have some club members who can remember sub-teen lift tickets. Why have those prices increased so steadily? Because we the consumer have become more demanding! Typically, the price of a lift ticket includes snowmaking equipment and services, ski patrol services, trail maps and Kleenex, places to eat, places to get warm, places to go to the bathroom, an expanding number of trails with grooming services, free shuttle buses and parking, as well as a way to get up the mountain quickly and safely.

We as ski consumers have become very demanding -- we want more groomed skiing areas and we want to spend less time in lift lines (even though there are more and more of us each year). That demand translates into big expenditures for ski areas. For example, the last high speed quad lift installed at Winter Park cost $2 million! The summit express lift at Winter Park gobbles up about $10,000 per month in electricity. That equates to about $50 per hour. Maintenance of such equipment is fairly intense; about

T-A-O-S -- TANTALIZING ATMOSPHERE OF THE SOUTHWEST!!

For brilliant New Mexican sunshine glistening on an abundance of featherlight powder, for spicy Southwestern cuisine and "martini tree" cocktails of Al's run to set your taste buds tingling, for the history of the 900 year old Taos Pueblo and the magic the Indians say is in that mountain, for stimulation of ALL your senses -- TRY T-A-O-S!!

True, Taos is not famous for its glittering nightlife... But if you have the energy to be entertained when the sun goes down, "No Problem!" Your TC, Rose, has the perfect "Club Red" solution, with options for each evening. A trivia fact--Taos is the Indian word for Red Willow Place. (There may be a test later.) Our lovely modern adobe architecture lodging, Quail Ridge Inn, has all the amenities you may not wish to leave after a hard day at the slopes. Cozy fireplaces in each room of each condo, color cable TV with movie channel in each unit, fully equipped kitchens, queen-sized beds, huge hot tub for our group picture, 20-meter heated lap pool, covered tennis courts, racquetball and squash courts, sauna, yoga and aerobics classes, massage available, Carl's French Quarter four-star Cajun cuisine restaurant and Pete's Pub on the premises--and, there's more. At the end of our first day in Taos Ski Valley, there will be an optional visit to the local supermarket for supplies to stock our condos, followed by a "Red Willow Wildfire" jacuzzi party (a what?), with all enthusiastic souls trekking about a block to award-winning Chile Connection for dinner, complemented by Margarita Pie. And that's just the first day! Thursday evening provides us the option of a free shuttle to historic Taos Plaza, a quaint Mexican-style open park surrounded by art galleries, souvenir shops, restaurants and pubs. Better be taking notes for the Taos Trivia Test. Friday evening there'll be our (included) home-cooked group dinner followed by games (?).

Following optional NASTAR races, there will be a wine and cheese party on the slopes. Our final evening we have choices for a group dinner excursion to the Stakeout steakhouse on legendary Outlaw Hill or to the historic Sagebrush Inn dining room, winding up our visit in the Sagebrush Lounge where we will be entertained by live C&W music, where there is always a possibility that Michael Martin Murphy may take the stage. Transportation will be provided by Pride of Taos for a reasonable fee.

Oh my, did we forget this is a ski trip? And in that department, Taos has all you could want and more. Admittedly, your first view of the mountain may cause you to gasp. But, "Don't Panic!" reads the sign at the base, reminding us that the near vertical Al's Run directly in front of us represents only 1/30th of Taos Ski Valley. There are plenty of runs for the beginner and intermediate skier, about half the total runs available. There are, however, rewards for the more daring and skilled skier who can tackle challenging Al's Run because hidden half-buried in the snow at the base of certain trees are handblown Mexican glass porrons filled with ice cold martini cocktails. These magical mountains reach a height of 11,800 feet, with 2,700 feet of glorious descent to the base. A representative of Taos Ski School will be on hand at our group breakfast on the first morning to explain their program. While all skiers from inexperienced to advanced can benefit from the excellent ski school, they teach almost twice as many expert level classes as beginner, covering steep, deep, touring, moguls, cornice and chute skiing. Another advantage of skiing Taos Ski Valley are the uncrowded conditions and the absence of lift line waits. There are one triple, six double-chair and two surface lifts. Taos hospitality shines brightly when the area reaches capacity and the lift lines stretch out to a five-minute wait. The Mountain Services group, nicknamed the Smiling Wavers, hands out hot chocolate to warm those in line. This is not your typical ski resort.

Time and weather conditions permitting, we will make a brief stop in beautiful, historic Santa Fe on the return bus ride to the airport Sunday morning. You still have a chance to be one of the thirty special skiers who will spend five days in exciting Adobe Country, experiencing Indian, Spanish and artistic cultures, four days of exhilarating skiing with only three days of vacation. Drop by the Taos table at the December meeting for some Southwestern blue corn tortilla chips and green chile salsa, and taste some of the reasons this is an adventure not to be missed. We depart late evening Tuesday, February 21, and return early evening Sunday, February 26th, all for $389. Your TC, Rose Tortorici, is ready to answer any questions. Call 772-7610 or 447-1700.

TIPS FOR SKI PHOTOGRAPHY

by George J. Hirasaki

There are no set rules on how a photograph should be taken. I will discuss how you can achieve certain effects and then let you be the artist.

• Composition

A common fault when photographing your friends is that they are too far away to see their facial expressions. Bring your subject close and adjust shutter speed for desired depth of field. Distant peaks, trees and rock formations make a good background. In most cases, snow makes a bland background and may result in underexposing your subject if you have an averaging meter (see section on lighting). An exception is if you want to draw the attention of the viewer to the subject such as in action shots. Beware of ski lifts in the background. Scenery is best photographed early or late in the day when shadows give depth to the snow.

• Lighting

Beware of the harsh shadows at high altitudes; your friends are usually best photographed with front lighting to avoid shadows across the face. Side lighting creates beautiful shadows for scenes but when photographing your friends, have them face toward to sun to avoid a shadow from the nose. Artistic silhouette photographs can be taken with backlighting. Shade the lens if possible. If your camera has an averaging meter (as opposed to a spot meter) your subject may be underexposed if sunlit snow is in the background. This can be avoided by metering close to your subject and setting your meter on manual operation.

• Action Shots

If possible, plan the spot with your subject and then ski over a specified spot on the snow (e.g. a mogul). This way you can prefocus your camera and your subject can look their best at the right moment. In addition to using a faster shutter speed, action can be stopped more easily if your subject is moving directly toward you rather than passing beside you. If your subject is passing beside you, pan your camera, i.e. follow your subject in your viewfinder. A vision of speed can be achieved by using a slow shutter speed (e.g. 1/60 sec.) and panning your subject. The background will be a blurry streak.

• Special Problems

Rewind slowly. In extremely cold, dry conditions, static electricity can leave tracks on the film. Check camera for snow inside case before entering a warm room. To avoid condensation, avoid opening case in warm room until camera warms.

• Final Note

Film is inexpensive compared to the total cost of a ski trip. Experiment with several different effects and/or exposures and show your best shot to your friends.

SCSC WOODLANDS GOLF CLASSIC

by Ted Bergeron

It was a perfect fall day, clear skies, mild temperatures, and a beautiful setting, The Woodlands Country Club. At 10:00 a.m., as Lisa Smith and Debbie Bergeron set up the registration table, the golfers started arriving. Howard Paillet and Graham Barnes, however, had arrived much earlier, around 8:00 a.m., and waited in the coffee shop (until they were "thrown out") for their 11:30 a.m. tee time! (Next time they might read the Sitzmarke to find out the correct time of a Ski Club event!)

Tom Mercer was decked out in new golf attire, looking like he just stepped off the PGA Tour. Charles Goodrich was walking around with his hand out asking, "Where's the beer?" The team of Phyllis Allman, Carol Dutton, Eric Holm and Craig Carbon headed directly for the practice tee because they were scheduled to tee off first. Mike Gerstenberger, Ron Noska and Jerry Pyle headed for the practice putting green, realizing that good putting was going to win this tournament. G. R. Doty and Mark Godleski were seen driving around the parking lot for twenty minutes trying to find a parking space. Arlene Bradley was the last to arrive, looking a bit ruffled -- she must have had a late night.

Graham Barnes, Arlene Bradley, Lucy Fred, and Howard Paillet.

The tournament started on time and all was going well until John Rice stepped up to the first tee. He blasted his tee shot, but unfortunately his ball went as far right as it did forward.

Ski Desk

10 minutes of every hour, winter and summer, is dedicated to maintenance/repair. Grooming equipment is essential to provide quality skiing. One piece of equipment sells for between $120,000 and $160,000. Add some attachments and the sticker price escalates (a tiller is $40,000 and a powder maker runs $15,000). Cost for the 60 gallons of diesel fuel it uses each night and the salary of the operator are additional expenses. As lift ticket prices have doubled, the cost of the equipment used by the ski areas has tripled.

How do the prices of lift tickets compare to your other entertainment expenses? The per/hour expense of 1988-1989 lift tickets ranges from $2.83 to $4.33 (based on a 6-hour ski day and the SCSC discounted rates). I think that a comparison will indicate that the per/hour expense of a lift ticket is comparable to or a better value than a number of local favorites, such as tennis, golf, live entertainment, sailing, racquetball, first run movies, Oilers tickets, Rockets tickets, etc.

So when you write that check out for lift tickets at the pre-trip party, don't just think about it in terms of a few more dollars out of your pocket; think of it as your investment in a ski area -- an investment which will give you many hours of pleasure on relatively uncrowded slopes and lift lines along with panoramic views of some of the most spectacular scenery on earth!

(Based on information contained in "The National Ski Club Newsletter" August, 1988 - Bob Wilbanks, Editor, in a reprinted article entitled "Lift Ticket Prices and Perception" by Dr. Charles Goeldner, originally printed in the May 1988 issue of Ski Management Magazine.)

"Skiing is the sport for me.

My skis are new, as you can see.

Powder snow is on the hills.

Here I go to get some thrills.

Skiing LESSONS are for kids.

I'll just keep my two knees tight,

The books I read said that way's right.

Hey — skis go faster than I thought!

I wonder what I've really bought!

When did you go on first ski trip? 1978.

Where was it to? Thanksgiving trip to Salt Lake City.

Had you ever skied before? Yes.

What did you expect to happen? Ha ha ha... Had high and low expectations. Heard it was a kinky organization. Expected to encounter clichish groups at activities.

What did happen? Everyone was very friendly.

What surprised you the most? How friendly the whole group was--everyone met everyone.

What was your most unforgettable experience on any SCSC trip? Hahaha... Rocks! ... at Crested Butte in 1981.
